NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, U.S., November 29, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- This Giving Tuesday, Craig Morgan is calling on fans to join the fight against human trafficking. The country music artist and Army veteran posted a Facebook fundraiser today inviting followers to help end human trafficking by donating $5 to the anti-trafficking nonprofit, The Exodus Road.

"Every dollar counts in this fight. Let's work together to put an end to modern-day slavery," Morgan writes. "The fact that children are sold daily for sex is devastating. We have to introduce more people to the tragic reality of human trafficking and get them involved; that's how we'll see change."

Morgan joined the fight to end human trafficking in 2017 after meeting with The Exodus Road's leadership team. Moved by their mission, Morgan told the team that he wanted to get involved personally. That fall, he traveled to Thailand with two board members and spent a week learning about anti-trafficking strategies on the front lines.

He got to see how The Exodus Road equips and sends out undercover operatives to gather evidence and build cases in partnership with local police. And, he was able to see how that casework empowered law enforcement to perform rescue operations – liberating survivors and arresting traffickers. After that trip, Morgan stayed connected with The Exodus Road, and in October of 2021, he joined the board of directors.

"We are so grateful that Craig is stepping into this official capacity with us," Laura Parker, the CEO and co-founder of The Exodus Road, said. "He is a dear friend of the organization, and his experience in the military, personal integrity and values, and passion for freedom will be incredible assets to push this mission forward."

As a member of the board, Craig plans to leverage his voice to raise awareness for the mission to end human trafficking, and support the development of more strategic operations and partnerships in the U.S.

Along with combating human-trafficking crime with law enforcement, The Exodus Road also equips communities with training and other resources to protect the vulnerable and empowers survivors through aftercare services. In September, the Colorado-based nonprofit launched TraffickWatch Academy: U.S., a free, online, multimedia training module that unpacks the complexities of human trafficking and educates viewers in identifying signs of trafficking and how to combat it in the United States.
