Angelena Bonet - Talk Show Host

When Australian born, Bonet was in Los Angeles in 2008 she attended a live taping of The Tonight Show with Jay Leno. Jay came out before the show to warm up the audience and he asked if anyone wanted to come up on stage and say hello. He chose Angelena to come up on his stage and meet him and she felt right in her element. He asked her what she did for a living and she told him she was a model and working on an pop rock album. He noted that she had an Australian accent and made reference to the late Steve Irwin, whom he had had on his show as a guest many times over the years. He then asked her to sing something so she sang one of her original songs Downtown a cappella. She was then invited back to the show a few weeks later on her birthday and got to meet Canadian actress Evangeline Lilly and The Chronicles of Narnia: Prince Caspian U.K. star Ben Barnes. Feeling completely at ease with Jay on his set was another television appearance that had an impact on her and inspired her own show.

A former international model and actress, she experienced two life changing tragedies, which inspired her to create her production company, Crystal Heart Productions. She has chronicled her journey in her documentary films and created her online talk show "Heart Of The Matter" in 2014 in Toronto. Bonet has won over 250 film festival awards worldwide for her talk show, documentary short film "Change The World", her documentary feature film tetralogy and original soundtrack which have been produced entirely by herself. "Change The World" recently screened in Tokyo, Seoul, New York, Munich, Sweden, Rome and South America. She has been the recipient of many awards including the 'Humanitarian Award' at The Jane Austen International Film Festival, the 'Human Spirit Award' at the DOCS Without Borders Film Festival in The Bahamas and numerous 'Best Inspirational Film' awards. "Heart Of The Matter" won the 'Social Awareness Award' at the Vegas Movie Awards.
