

Anti-Human Trafficking Intelligence Initiative Partners with Industry Data Experts for Annual Darkwebathon

Darkwebathon Focuses on Uncovering Actionable Intel for Human Trafficking Related Crimes on the Dark Web

WILMINGTON, NC, USA, December 1, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Anti-Human Trafficking Intelligence Initiative (ATII) will host their first annual Darkwebathon from December 6-10, a 5-day virtual hackathon event with the goal of investigating data from the Darkweb and uncovering actionable intelligence that can be used to effectively handle real-world cases involving crimes on the Darkweb. This program will bring industry data experts together to equip law enforcement and federal officials with fact-based content to address the highly challenging and dynamic nature of cybercrimes in human trafficking, modern slavery, and child sex abuse material.

The Darkwebathon will utilize ATII's licensed dark web platform, Hades, by having over 300 registered event participants competing to identify and profile potential traffickers. "In 2021, ATII has had tremendous success in mapping out organized criminal networks on the darkweb in addition to attributing cryptocurrency data in blockchain forensics applications and allowing cryptocurrency companies to map out their exposure to these darkweb entities." said Larry Cameron, CISO of ATII. "We have uncovered and triaged a significant amount of data within the application and are now for a limited time allowing the public to assist with the investigations." Outside of the event, ATII uses Hades in a much larger capacity as a way to detect child exploitation, CSAM, drugs, weapons, fraud, mixers/washers, money laundering or other illicit activity – in addition to human trafficking.

"This hackathon is critical in helping law enforcement agencies navigate the Darkweb for cybercrime," said Aaron Kahler, Founder & CEO of ATII. "Our event allows participants to identify and profile potential traffickers, providing law enforcement agencies with real and actionable intelligence.

The poster features a dark blue background with a white border. At the top center is the Project Hades logo, which is a shield-shaped emblem with a wolf's head and the text "PROJECT HADES". Below the logo, the title "Darkwebathon: Rally for Actionable Intelligence" is written in a white serif font, followed by the dates "December 6-10, 2021". The main body of text is in a smaller white sans-serif font, providing details about the event's purpose and goals. At the bottom, a URL is provided: <https://followmoneyfightslavery.org/darkwebathon/>. The entire poster is set against a light gray background.

We invite tech savvy minds to apply to participate in this 5-day virtual hackathon event with the goal of identifying data from the Darkweb and uncover actionable intelligence that can be used to effectively handle real-world cases involving human trafficking.

Darkwebathon is hosted by ATII with our unique darkweb platform, Hades, to join hands with socially responsible individuals with the goal of following the money to fight slavery. Using Hades, participants will identify and profile potential traffickers, crawling for data. Thousands of leads were generated by a variety of automated methods to enable teams to further collect actionable intelligence.

ATII is working together with industry data experts to equip law enforcement and federal officials with the fact-based content to address the highly challenging and dynamic nature of cybercrimes in human trafficking, modern slavery and CSAM.
