BRENTWOOD, TENNESSEE, UNITED STATES, December 6, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hedge, a payroll-to-cryptocurrency conversion service based out of Brentwood, Tennessee, has teamed up with the 'Cryptocurrency With Matthew J. Moore' show, a popular radio show airing on 102.3 KRMG in Tulsa, Oklahoma, with shows also available on Spotify, Apple and Google podcasts.

The Bitcoin and cryptocurrency based radio show airs live every Sunday evening with Matt Moore and his team to a potential local audience of 1 million Tulsa and surrounding area residents, hosting guests from every corner of the nascent technologies that make up the blockchain and cryptocurrency space. The show has garnered positive reviews for it's focus on promoting the most beneficial and least understood aspects of Bitcoin, and the sovereign freedoms obtained through the investing of such a paradigm shifting technology in today's digital world.

"Hedge is excited to expand it's goal to both enable the masses in converting any amount of their pay directly into cryptocurrencies and also educate them about the benefits, inner workings and many use cases it provides everyone," says David Schwartz, CEO of Cornerstone Global Management, Inc., Hedge's company. "We're excited to do this with Matt and his team. They have the pulse of Tulsa and crypto education down to a tee, so it's a perfect way to continue one of our own core goals of mass education = mass adoption."

Matt reiterated the same by stating, "My goal with the radio show has always been to grow cryptocurrency understanding and adoption, by meeting people where they are. Radio has been a perfect platform to do this and teaming up with Hedge will give us greater tools and knowledge to help enhance these educational efforts."
