"We've recently begun to transition from an online consumer company to one with a focus on corporate gift giving and had already purchased tremendous amounts of high-quality inventory that's sitting in our warehouse," said Robert Shekell, president, ShopCadeaux. "With supply chain issues wreaking holiday havoc, we decided now was the time to liquidate these first-run consumer products for the whole family at 50 percent off retail pricing – awarding consumers some exceptional buys and corporate retail buyers an opportunity to boost their inventories and meet their own consumer demand."

Shoppers may visit the pop-up store during business hours or visit ShopCadeaux.com and click on the "Sale" tab to browse merchandise discounted 50 percent. Products include singular gift items available for purchase, as well as curated and specially packaged gift collections.
