EasyJobReferences.com allows recruiters and hiring managers to register and list the people being used as references. The site emails the reference sources, giving them an ID and password to login and answer questions to build a personal or professional reference for the job seeker. The site incorporates security measures that insure confidentiality.

The company points out many advantages of using their patented methodology, stating that this will eliminate the loss of a potential employee due to inability to get references in a timely manner. With the demand for skilled people becoming more crucial every day, the founders believe that the ability to check references instantly will provide a competitive advantage for users of the site. This patented technology saves employers time and money by automating this aspect of the recruitment process.

By utilizing EasyJobReferences.com, recruiters and hiring managers have access to reference givers on vacation or on the other side of the world. The reference givers can respond at their convenience without trying to coordinate a phone call. In addition, the process gives recruiters the ability to provide reference results to client employers without the overhead or inaccuracies of transcription processes.
