

Superman #1 Comic Hits $1,775,000 at ComicConnect.com Auction Closing on 12-16, Higher Bids Expected

ComicConnect.com Auction Bidding for Superman #1 Comic Book Hits $1,775,000. Vincent Zurzolo expects it to go even higher.

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, December 3, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A Tale of Fate, Love at First Sight, and an Ultra-rare Superman #1 Comic

Some of the stories that come of out during the holiday season are nearly as dramatic as comic book plotlines.

That includes a couple falling in love at first sight—and the reappearance of an ultra-rare Superman #1 comic that's been out of the public eye for more than 40 years.

Twelve years ago, Mark and Sara Michaelson—both serious collectors—met at Comic Con. Mark was a long-time client of ComicConnect.com, the largest auction house of vintage comics and collectibles. He'd paid for college by buying and selling comics.

Mark fell for Sara's smile and excellent taste in comics (Superman, Wonder Woman, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles). Sara fell equally hard for Mark. Four years later, they married.

The Houston couple have something else they love... Mark's long-treasured copy of Superman #1, the iconic superhero's first self-titled comic. It was published in 1939, following the enormous success of Action #1, which marked Superman's first appearance.

"This is an incredibly important, valuable comic book," says Vincent Zurzolo, co-owner of ComicConnect.com.

Mark and Sara Michaelson with Vincent Zurzolo.

“Superman pioneered the entire superhero genre. There would be no Batman, no Spider-Man, no blockbuster movies and shows without him. On top of that, the first issue of a character’s series is generally the most valuable.”

Most Golden Age comic books (1935-1955) were lost decades ago. Those that survived are closely-held treasures. Michaelson purchased his Superman #1 in 1979 from its original owner who purchased it in 1939. He insisted that he would only sell the book to someone who would treasure it as much as he did. Even back then, it was a coup.

After cherishing it for more than 40 years, the semi-retired healthcare executive is ready to pass it along to an equally-passionate collector. Zurzolo—who holds six Guinness World Records for the most expensive comics and related collectibles ever bought or sold—will manage the auction at www.ComicConnect.com which ends on December 16th.

Mark Michaelson with Superman #1

There are only a handful of copies of Superman #1 in this type of condition. According to Zurzolo, this gorgeous copy—one of the finest he’s seen—is expected to break the two million dollar mark at auction, while sparking enormous industry interest.

“

There are only a handful of copies of Superman #1 in this condition. I expect it to break the two million dollar mark.

This is a comic book that rarely comes up for sale.”

Vincent Zurzolo

“This is a comic book that rarely comes up for sale,” notes Zurzolo. “Once word gets out, every serious collector and investor will be thinking about making a bid.”

Visit www.ComicConnect.com for more information.

To interview Vincent Zurzolo or the Michaelson’s, or to view Superman #1, contact Lekas & Levine PR at 847-327-9530

or JoannePR@aol.com.

Joanne Levine
Lekas & Levine PR
joannepr@aol.com

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2021 IPD Group, Inc. All Right Reserved.