Going live nearly two years after the COVID-19 pandemic first started, the 2022 program will feature insights from top investors and biopharma executives by:

- Examining how the biopharma industry can accelerate drug discovery and manufacturing to prepare for future pandemics.
- Providing updates in hot therapeutic areas such as oncology, CNS, cell and gene therapy, rare disease.
- Exploring how COVID-19 accelerated the adoption of all things digital.

Known for its ability to connect global life science executives and investors during healthcare's busiest week of the year, the 2022 edition delivers enhanced value and convenience for attendees. This year, the full Biotech Showcase family of events - Biotech Showcase, Digital Medicine and Medtech Showcase, China Showcase and Seed Showcase - will all take place concurrently at the Hilton San Francisco Union Square offering even greater convenience and collaboration opportunities while conveying the industry’s broad promise of innovation.

“Biotech Showcase continues to be the place where industry leaders, investors, biotech and pharmaceutical companies can come together to collaborate, address the most relevant opportunities and challenges, fuel investment to drive innovation, and build the relationships to accelerate drug development,” says Sara Jane Demy, Founder and CEO, Demy-Colton. “There’s a strong desire for people to safely gather and enjoy a much-needed collaborative experience, and we’re thrilled to be able to provide this opportunity.”

“Each year, we look forward to connecting our existing and potential partners as we come together to discuss the latest industry trends, while helping to facilitate investment and deal-making,” said Tina Gunnink, Managing Director, EBD Group US. “It will be exciting to bring conference attendees back to Biotech Showcase in person again, while offering a convenient virtual alternative for those unable to attend in person.”

Last year’s virtual event included 2,500 attendees, with more than 300 company presentations and 850 investors. Organizers have designed a program to provide industry updates and insights from leading executives and advisors as well as key sessions. To maximize convenience to attendees, company presentations and select on demand content will be released up to five weeks prior to the event, providing interested parties with the opportunity to access company presentations, thought-leadership, and specialized sessions. A full list of conference participants and sponsors can be found here.
