Arielle is on a mission to help children increase their Emotional Intelligence. Put On a Big Smile is inspired by the EI skill of social effectiveness, specifically the dimension of relationship management. Put On a Big Smile is the second book in Arielle's series on Emotional Intelligence. Her first book, "I Am Brave and Unafraid," was published in 2019 after a successful Kickstarter campaign to help raise awareness and cover the cost of being a self-publishing author. Each contribution to the Kickstarter campaign also donated a copy of the book to many local charities in and around Chicago.

Within the last two weeks, Arielle has shared Put On a Big Smile with four different schools, many of which were schools she visited in the past. However, with Covid restrictions and most schools being virtual over the previous year, reading books to classrooms has been a rare occasion. "Being back in the classroom - wow, it felt so good!" said Arielle after her reading at BJE

Pre-School this week.

Put On a Big Smile is also on Kickstarter and is close to meeting the project goal. The project is 80% FUNDED, and there are 7 DAYS to Go!

You can join the Kickstarter and be a part of the book project by following Arielle on social media or clicking the links in this article. If the goal is met, publishing is scheduled to start in the Spring.
