We pay tribute to those pioneer students who opened the path in 1953. Youths in Iran continue the same path by their presence in the Nov. 2019 uprising.

PARIS, FRANCE, December 10, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Each year, Iranians commemorate Student Day, which is 16 Azar in the Iranian calendar, or December 6th or 7th.

The important feature of this day is that it originated in 1953 when 3 students at Tehran University were killed by the Shah's regime because of their participation in a peaceful protest.

Over the last forty-plus years, the mullahs' regime has tried to downplay the event and have even exploited it by holding pro-government ceremonies.

This hasn't gone down well with students and they have used these state-run ceremonies to protest the Iranian regime's human rights violations, their exporting of terrorism, and useless nuclear projects.

It seems that no longer do the Iranians want any more religious tyranny inflicted upon them because both the country and its resources are wasted.

Iranian youths have made it quite clear that they would be only able to enjoy their youthful years when the dictators are out of power.

Daily suppression didn't stop the students from commemorating the anniversary of the Student Day, especially \(PMOI / MEK Iran\) supporters by joining the MEK resistance units, across the country.
