An aircraft cabin is the section of an aircraft in which passengers travel. The main objective of the aircraft cabin interior is to provide convenience and comfort to the passenger. Aircraft cabin interior comprises overhead bins, monuments, seats, carts, lavatory, and lights. Some airlines install in-flight live screening, fiber seats, and mood lighting, which can be controlled manually by a remote control. In commercial air travel, cabins can be divided into several parts. These parts can include the galley and storage for in-flight service, areas for flight attendants, and travel class sections in medium and large aircraft. An increase in passenger movement across the world is expected to augment growth of the aircraft cabin interior market.
