

North American medical masks market shall expand impressively at a CAGR of 8.9%

Demand For Medical Mask Is Projected To Grow Impressively At A CAGR Of 9.6% During The Forecast Period (2020 – 2030)

UNITED STATES, December 15, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global medical masks market was estimated at US$ 9517.9 Mn in 2019. Demand for medical mask is projected to grow impressively at a CAGR of 9.6% during the forecast period (2020 – 2030).

The advent of minimally invasive surgeries has fuelled the demand for the distribution of surgical and anaesthesia masks among different end users, such as ambulatory surgical centers, hospitals, specialty clinics, etc.

With a growing geriatric population, health-related concerns that are leading to surgeries have increased tremendously, majorly in the emerging economies.

As per statistics provided by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, approximately 17.2 million inpatient stays or ambulatory hospital visits included an invasive surgery, and more than half of these stays took place in the ambulatory surgical settings.

Consistent growth in the number of surgeries performed globally is boosting the demand for anaesthesia masks and laryngeal masks, which is expected to contribute to the growth of the medical mask market during the forecast period.
