Further key findings in the report

- Light-Emitting Diode (LED) Portable Monitors offer better color and contrast quality for sharper images, and are more energy-efficient than Liquid-Crystal Display (LCD) Portable Monitors. Faster response time in LED monitors makes it an attractive option for serious gamers.
- Video Graphics Array (VGA) is a standard monitor display interface used in most personal computers. If a monitor is VGA compatible, it can be used with most new computers. However, its ability to utilize only analog signals means it can deliver only lower quality resolution on screens.
- The online segment revenue is projected to register a higher growth rate during the forecast period due to increasing Internet access and high usage of e-Commerce channels by consumers. Additionally, the need for social distancing has propelled the use of online shopping channels, which is driving revenue growth of this segment.
- North America accounted for the largest revenue share in the global Portable Monitors market in 2019. Robust presence of advanced research infrastructure in countries in the region and high adoption of advanced electronic devices is another factor supporting market growth.
