Aptys paves the way for automated liquidity management of the funding account of financial institutions with the RTP® (Real Time Payments) and FedNow® faster payments networks. Integration of real-time APIs and a real-time view of transaction history to both corporate credit unions and community credit unions enabling credit unions to automate management of liquidity and transaction posting. It also allows for managing both RTP and FedNow accounts. This service will comprehensively manage RTP network funding for credit unions plus monitor and manage balances, including reacting to position alerts around the clock. The service diligently provides required, pre-funded balances on the financial institutions' (FIs) behalf, daily reconciliation reports, and real-time posting of transaction records.

An Aptys customer since 2020, Alloya, which provides services to 1,400-member credit unions, has converged multiple products to PayLOGICS. Currently live on ACH, Alloya has licensed the liquidity manager to go live soon. This new add-on module in the PayLOGICS suite of products reduces the cost for customers while providing a feature-rich user interface for member credit unions to reconcile transactions to their core.

“The benefits of the solution are extensive,” said Todd Adams, President of Alloya. “Simplifying cash management, settlement and reconciliation by seamlessly combining real-time payments with a member credit union’s existing settlement account supports our goal of providing value-added settlement services for our member credit unions. Alloya can now provide an aggregated pre-funded account for our member credit unions for both RTP and FedNow that helps us to expand in the market. Additionally, Aptys’ online reports provide significant convenience and powerful benefits for Alloya and our members.”

“Aptys’ liquidity manager for the RTP network is opening the door to new opportunities in faster payments,” said Naseer Nasim, CEO of Aptys. “It leverages Aptys’ leadership in the payments industry and sets FIs up for success in the rapidly expanding payments landscape by supporting their participation on the RTP network through funding management. As an FI’s funding agent, Aptys provides an easy and efficient way for FIs to manage funding requirements for real-time payment transactions, working with their preferred funding provider.”
