Kyle Lorber States How Hiring a Consultant Can Free Up One's Time

Kyle explains that one of the biggest benefits associated with hiring a social media consultant for one's social media marketing needs is that a consultant will take over the handling of one's pages. Managing social media pages can be time-consuming, so having someone else do it frees up one's time to focus on other pressing business needs, including hiring staff and overseeing inventory.

Kyle Lorber Explains How Consistent Brand Messaging Is Important

Kyle Lorber says that one of the most overlooked benefits of hiring a social media consultant for one's social media marketing needs is that it helps to create consistent brand messaging for one's customers. Many business owners who are not skilled in social media management do not have a clear and consistent social media brand messaging strategy. As such, they may not be targeting their desired demographic or maybe sending out mixed signals about what the business is and what they are about. A social media consultant can help one maintain consistent brand messaging across all one's social media platforms.

Kyle Details How a Consultant Can Increase Engagement

Lorber explains that the final benefit to hiring a social media consultant for one's social media marketing needs is that a consultant can help to increase engagement numbers. Whether it be interacting and messaging users, or creating unique content that will keep customers viewing and liking one's pages, a social media consultant can help. Increasing engagement helps to increase brand awareness and may help one's company's search engine rankings as well.

Kyle Lorber wants business owners to understand how important social media is, while at the same time, understanding that social media needs to be properly managed to maximize their benefits. A social media consultant can work to create new social media pages, add followers or friends, free up one's time to focus on more pressing issues, create consistent brand messaging, and increase engagement.
