"We operate at the scale and speed necessary to capitalize on the promise of emerging technologies (Internet of Things – IoT) and the advantages they will provide. It is our business to deliver reliable, scalable, productive communications and build smarter, more meaningful smart parcel lockers", says David Baker from Package Nexus.

The company has a wide network of resellers across the U.S and Canada with the help of which it sells and supports the Smart Parcel Lockers and its customers. The company is very famous among schools and colleges around the continent.

"We live it every day, from saving packages to saving groceries, to saving time and money. We can serve as an extension of your operations and help you scale better. We will help your business to connect with your customers on a different level." said David Baker.

"Unique and patented physical and technological features allow Package Nexus to create innovative and sophisticated software. Our Worldwide Patented Technology ensures our solutions remain fresh and unique", added David.

What makes Package Nexus Parcel Lockers unique is that they use Patented Artificial Intelligence Technology in the Kiosk to overcome End-User's errors during delivery & pickup process.
