Adding color with exterior painting and give character with flower pots, lanterns and pillows. Terraces, balconies and gardens will become more welcoming. Do not throw away old chairs that faded - paint them! Also paint wooden crates and create a relaxed but colorful backdrop to spend the afternoons.

Create the ideal painting color combination if you know your favorite painting colors but find it difficult to combine them.

Evaluate space - Different colors suit different rooms, so the first step is to evaluate the space. If the room faces north and is often cold, bright colors in vibrant, clean shades will intensify the light and make it look warmer. If the room faces south, most colors are appropriate - even the darkest.

Consider using the room. Is it to eat, to work or to sleep? Use painting colors to create the desired mood. Cool, calm, pale colors such as light green and water blue evoke calm, while intense, dark colors such as red and purple will stimulate the senses.

Inspiration is everywhere - Nature is a wonderful, inexhaustible source of color combinations. Take a walk in the beautiful countryside and write down landscapes that feel more alive.

Write down the most valuable items in the house. Have a pillow that instantly adds shine to any space? Choose colors from a favorite decorative pattern and then include the item in the finished room for a complete, personal effect.

Art can also inspire gorgeous color combinations. Choose some key colors from a painting palette for a color combination that is guaranteed to awaken the creative side.

The magic of collage - Once colors have been chosen, take samples of colors and fabrics that include different painting tones of shades. Use a flat surface or white cardboard as a background for the combination.

Organize and reorganize according to the feeling. Take time to decide. Do not forget to take a few steps back and look at it from a distance. When done everything will look fantastic.

Try it before painting - Small one-liter color swatches are a great way to make sure the color looks just as good on the walls as it does on the collage. Painting different spots in different lighting or hang a painted A4 paper on different walls is a great way to see how the colors look in natural and artificial light and at different times of the day.
