announced today results of their third quarter operations.

Quarterly revenue increased 177% over the previous quarter, while the number of completed events increased 180% and their national talent pool grew to 855 Food & Beverage Professionals. (Personal Sommeliers is privately-held and does not disclose financial details.)

Although we expect some disruption to sales of events as a result of the COVID Omicron Variant, we believe this will be short-lived and are well prepared for continued strong growth in the New Year.”

Robert Smith, President & Master Sommelier

“Parties are back and demand for Day-of-Event talent continues to exceed our expectations. Our top priority as a business is delivering an exemplary experience to our Customers, and our Food & Beverage Professionals excelled in doing so this quarter,” said Robert Smith, President & Master Sommelier.

He added “Although we expect some disruption to sales of events in the new quarter as a result of the COVID Omicron Variant, we believe this will be short-lived and are well prepared for continued strong growth in the New Year.”
