Camp is currently serving as the Head Coach at Colorado Christian University, a NCAA DII School. The past two years have both been program bests, breaking records in wins and goal differential, with CCU finishing the past season at 10-5-1. Camp brings a nice resume; he has had numerous years of coaching experience at places like East Tennessee State University and Maryville College. He also holds a B National Youth license from the United States Soccer Federation, with performance analysis diplomas from United Soccer Coaches.

When asked about the job, Camp replied that, "First, I wanted to give a big thanks to Joe Webb for trusting me with this project. Second, I would like to say that I am excited to get to work. The planning, recruiting, and development of our ideas has already started, and I cannot wait to hit the field. This is such an exciting project. I am eager to develop the First team into an example for the academy to come alongside. I love the vision, the direction of Flatirons Rush. Lastly, I am very eager to add my ideas and abilities into this group. We have a strong foundation and a good group in place from last year, and my goal is to provide a platform for the team to compete at the top of our conference. I am already buzzing after meeting a few of the players, and the season can't come quick enough."
