Ammonium chloride is an inorganic chemical compound, which is predominantly used as a fertilizer. Other bundled applications of ammonium chloride in pharmaceuticals, food, textiles and other metal industries, have fetched notable advancements over the past decades. Global ammonium chloride market is poised to reflect moderate growth under 5% for these sectors. However, agrochemicals would still be the dominant application of ammonium chloride. The recent past has witnessed a resurgence of fertilizer grade ammonium chloride whose market is forecast to surpass US$ 2 Bn in 2029, reveals Fact.MR in a recently published report on ammonium chloride market.

The market study done by Fact.MR gives exclusive information about how the market will grow.

The study identifies crucial trends that are determining the growth of Agrochemical Ammonium Chloride market. This newly published report sheds light on vital dynamics, such as the drivers, restraints, and opportunities for key market players as well as emerging players associated with the production and supply. The latest report by Fact.MR provides detailed Market Analysis of Agrochemical Ammonium Chloride

This newly published and insightful report sheds light on Market Insights of Agrochemical Ammonium Chloride, key dynamics, their impact on the overall value chain from suppliers to end-users and Growth of Agrochemical Ammonium Chloride Market.

Key takeaways of the Global Ammonium Chloride Market

Ammonium chloride is used as a fertilizer for gaining high yield in paddy crops, which is a dominant grade, and accounts for around 90% market share.

Use of ammonium chloride as a salty flavor additive, a replacement to common salt is trending in Western Europe, and the trend is likely to migrate to other regions in the mid-term forecast.

Owing to technological advancements in Lithium-ion and polymer based batteries, ammonium chloride battery is now outdated. Thus, battery grade ammonium chloride is poised to experience stagnant growth till 2029.

Demand for Agrochemical ammonium chloride from medical/ pharmaceuticals in 2029 is anticipated to increase two fold from that of 2019.

East Asia is expected to maintain its reign in terms of supply and demand, accounting for more than three fourth of global ammonium chloride supply

The ammonium chloride market is fragmented in nature, with prominent manufactures of ammonium chloride coming from China.

Global ammonium chloride market is highly import-oriented, China is the largest exporter of ammonium chloride, the demand for ammonium chloride in Latin America and MEA is predominantly met through imports only.

"Owing to established application of ammonium chloride in fertilizers, the manufacturers need to re-configure strategy for focused development in other niche applications. Prominent manufactures are now focusing on exploring newer applications to track developments in ammonium chloride market." says a Fact.MR analyst.
