DALLAS, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, January 12, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Texas health insurance has always had many benefits. But one feature that has millions of Americans eager to sign up is the option to add dental insurance. According to the details of the ACA, Americans who sign up using the federal health insurance marketplace at healthcare.gov can find and compare a variety of dental plans in their area and enroll if they choose. If necessary, Americans can add a stand-alone dental insurance plan and pay a separate but affordable premium.

According to a recent survey of more than 2,000 Americans by Value Penguin, 48% of insured Americans have been skipping dental visits or recommended procedures because of cost. This includes health insurance companies in Texas that have high end clients. But with the ACA, dental insurance is available and more affordable than ever. In fact, there are two categories to choose from: high and low. The high coverage level has higher premiums but lower co-payments and deductibles. So while you'll pay more every month, you'll actually pay less for dental services. On the flip side, lower coverage has lower premiums but higher co-payments and deductibles. You'll pay less every month but more when using dental services.

Rick Thornton, a health insurance broker in Texas said the key thing Americans need to remember is that you can't buy a marketplace dental plan unless you are also signing up for a health plan at the same time. With that said, this is yet another affordable option to add to a new health insurance coverage plan. The current administration went out of its way to create a system that provides affordable health insurance, especially for those who were underinsured or uninsured. But time will tell how this administration answers the challenge of getting more people to go back to the dentist.
