

Permeate market exhibiting a CAGR of 4.75% during the forecast period (2018-2026) | Arion Dairy Products B.V.

Milk permeate has various cosmetic applications in food manufacturing, remediation, pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, and so on.

SEATTLE, WA, UNITED STATES , January 13, 2022
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Market Overview:

Milk permeate has various cosmetic applications in food manufacturing, remediation, pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, and so on. It is a byproduct of the milk protein concentrate production process, formed when ultrafiltration of plain milk is used to remove fat and protein. The resulting product is dried with modern low-heat dry powder spray evaporators. This product has low solubility, which makes it suitable for use in cosmetics.

The purpose of using skim milk alternatives is to maintain nutritional value or enhance food flavor. When considering the use of this product in food processing, food products manufacturers have a choice between using skim milk alternatives. The major difference in both products is that the former does not include some of the fats and other components present in whole or concentrated dairy ingredients. It also contains minimal protein.
