Insomnia Market

Insomnia is a sleep disorder where in people have problem in falling asleep or remaining asleep. The major causes of insomnia include high stress level, mental disorders, excessive consumptions of caffeine & alcohol, and other medical conditions. Insomnia is categorized into three types depending on the duration of the disorder, namely transient (few days), acute (few weeks), and chronic insomnia (few months or even years).

The global insomnia market is driven by factors such as emergence of therapeutics with fewer side-effects and rise in demand for over-the-counter (OTC) sleep aids. Few drugs that are used for the treatment of chronic diseases affect the quality of sleep; thereby, increasing the number of insomnia cases. Furthermore, rise in geriatric population and growth in disposable income are expected to boost the market growth. However, the side-effects caused due to excessive use of sleep medication and patent expiration of many prescription drugs are expected to hamper the market growth.

□□□□□-□□ □□□□□□□□:

- 1) The COVID-19 impact on the Insomnia Market is unpredictable and is expected to remain in force till the fourth quarter of 2021.
- 2) The COVID-19 outbreak forced governments across the globe to implement strict lockdowns and banned import-export of nonessential items for most of 2021. This led to sudden fall in the availability of important raw materials.
- 3) Moreover, nationwide lockdowns forced manufacturing facilities to partially or completely shut their operations.
- 4) Adverse impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic have resulted in delays in activities and initiatives regarding development of reliable and innovative drone analytics systems globally.
