Looking for a reliable and trusted CBD payment processor? Look no further.

TAMPA, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES,
January 17, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ --

In the current scenario, entry in the CBD and hemp marketplace may, very well, be exciting but challenging. The bad news? The application process for obtaining a merchant account in the hemp and CBD oil industry is frustrating and time-consuming. The lack of uniform federal regulations has, unfortunately, led to a patchwork of complex and varied CBD laws across the states. CBD businesses, typically classified as 'high risk' businesses, face the ongoing challenge of finding a dependable payment processing solution.

Is it any wonder why? It's been almost 80 years since CBD was first discovered, but we still have a lot to learn about this unique product.

As if that wasn't enough to complicate a business owner's life, existing CBD financial services are plagued by onboarding delays, sudden shutdowns, compliance issues, and, consequently, high costs. If you can't accept payments, you can't take orders! The absence of modern and quick payment processing solutions can make your customers choose your competitors. Not being able to accept online or mobile payments can translate to lost business opportunities. Ok, ok. The nightmare ends here.

Next-generation payment technology company, Payzli understands the roadblocks that CBD and hemp merchants face better than anyone else and that's why we are able to solve them better too.
