

Sanxtuary MD Launches “My First Period Kit” and Leak-Proof, Slip-Proof Period Panties to Inspire Confidence in Women

USA, January 15, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Sanxtuary MD, a company committed to helping women learn about their bodies and manage their mensural cycles, has announced that a new line of products will be released on January 17, 2022. The new Sanxtuary MD line will include a “My First Period Kit” for young women and an innovative set of period panties.

The “My First Period Kit” has been professionally crafted to celebrate womanhood. Ushering girls into puberty the right way, the kit empowers young women to learn about their bodies and conquer menstruation. The kit includes one of Sanxtuary MD’s signature period panties, as well as a book, pen, jewelry, and supportive information regarding puberty topics to demystify an often confusing yet exciting milestone in a woman’s life and to educate in new and empowering ways.

Sanxtuary MD’s new period panties, a pair of which are included in each kit, feature a revolutionary design that keeps pads of all sizes in place using comfortable straps. Each pair is manufactured with absorbent bamboo fabric that can hold up to five tampons worth of liquid and delivers powerful moisture-wicking, leak-resistant, and breathable properties. Offering protection day and night, the new panties take important strides in inspiring confidence in women of all ages with a product that works for all body types and securely protects against slippage and leaks.

“Sanxtuary MD has helped women learn about their bodies and find effective products to manage their periods,” remarked Dr. Amber Robins, Founder of Sanxtuary MD. “Our ‘My First Period Kit’ empowers young women, while our period panties solve the problem of heavy periods or nightly leaks. Together, we address the struggles of women worldwide and take some stress away from that special time each month,” she added.

Dr. Amber Robins, board-certified family medicine and lifestyle medicine physician, founded Sanxtuary MD after reflecting on her personal experience with menstruation and the struggles of her female patients. Today, the company is a source of women’s health information starting from puberty and beyond.
