Thinkproject, Europe’s leading SaaS provider in construction intelligence, today announced the acquisition of the French market leader in the digital transformation of the construction sector, Kairnial Group. Together, the companies will further accelerate the digitalization of the construction sector to deliver more sustainable, punctual, and cost-efficient projects.

Headquartered in Lyon, France with over 125 employees, Kairnial Group serves 500 prestigious clients such as Bouygues Group, VINCI, Spie batignolles Group, Leon Grosse, Rabet Dutilleul, Icade, Nexity, and ADP. Its product portfolio includes a market leading mobile offering, a 2D / 3D BIM viewer as well as field functionalities, formerly known as Resolving. In addition, Kairnial offers software for building deconstruction in an effort to increase sustainability in an otherwise largely carbon-emitting industry.

The acquisition adds highly complementary product functionalities to Thinkproject's existing SaaS suite and significantly increases its presence in France, strengthening the European stronghold of Thinkproject. The combined company plans to drive growth in new geographies and further enhance its leadership position as largest independent AECO platform in the European construction technology industry.

Together, the companies aim to better address their customer needs and further accelerate the end-to-end digitalization in the construction sector by covering the entire asset lifecycle throughout the Design, Plan, Build and Operate phases. By pursuing this holistic platform approach Thinkproject and Kairnial support their customers to operate increasingly sustainable and enable them to plan more accurately to reduce project delays and waste.

Patrik Heider, CEO of Thinkproject says "Construction and infrastructure are the biggest growth drivers for the world's GDP, yet the construction worker productivity improvement is the lowest compared to other industries. The AECO industry is looking for a trusted and experienced digitalization partner with deep industry knowledge built on 20 years of experience. With the support of our shareholders EQT and TA Associates, Thinkproject aims to offer best of breed construction intelligence solutions for all construction workers and global customers. With this partnership, Thinkproject adds a highly complementary product offering and can provide a leading common data environment (CDE) solution with document collaboration, Mobile-first BIM, and Field Management capabilities. We are excited to welcome our new Kairnial Group colleagues to the Thinkproject family."

"With Thinkproject we have gained a partner with similar vision and values which will serve as a strong foundation for our collaboration. On its journey to digitalization, our customers and the construction sector will benefit from the strong integration of our technologies and data services. With this partnership we are now able to offer Kairnial's solutions to many geographies such as Germany, UK, Benelux, Northern Europe, ANZ and Middle East. This transaction creates additional means, resources and competencies that complement each other. Kairnial has pioneered Mobile BIM viewing since 2003. Today, I am truly excited to be on the frontier of a new era for the AECO industry" says Franck Meudec, CEO of Kairnial Group.
