

Healthcare Providers Enhance Sanitation and Privacy with Suntrol

OHIO , CLEVELAND, UNITED STATES, January 18, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- During persistent COVID-19 pandemic conditions, replacing blinds, curtains and fabric separators that can trap contagions has become a top priority for many Ohio healthcare providers, major hospitals and medical centers. Cleveland Clinic and University Hospitals are among those taking action with Suntrol.

“Privacy film is rapidly replacing outdated blinds and curtains in healthcare environments,” said Suntrol’s owner, John Hansen. “Professionally applied to glass, these films stand up to frequent cleaning, optimizing sanitation processes and privacy, while reducing risk and enhancing surroundings.”

According to a January 12 report, Ohio’s seven-day positive-test average for COVID-19 was 27.8 percent, more than five times the CDC-recommended levels. This brought ICU bed occupancy rate to more than 85 percent, with nearly 30 percent of those occupants fighting COVID-19.
