Fluoride Market endures its revenue pool with growing demand from the building and construction industry in conjunction with the growing urban population ,Aluminum fluoride, also known as aluminium trifluoride, is an inorganic chemical compound used to make aluminium.

Aluminum Fluoride

By 2024, the global aluminium fluoride market is expected to reach US$ 1710 million, growing at a CAGR of 1.9 percent during the forecast period (2019 - 2027).

Overview

Aluminum fluoride was discovered in 1834 by Prof. Carl Benzinger. It was the first known compound containing a fluoride ion. It was used for curing tooth decay in children. Later, its benefits were realized and it was applied to other important industrial processes such as automobile manufacturing and the chemical industry. Aluminum fluoride is one of the most popular mineral fluoride compounds used today. The aluminum ion has the ability to strengthen teeth by improving the structure of enamel. Aluminum fluoride is a versatile substance having a range of useful applications. Owing to its preventive effect on teeth, it became popular for its use as a dental additive.

Competitive Landscape

Major companies contributing to the global aluminum fluoride market include I.C.F., Fluorsid, Shandong Zhaohe, Hunan Nonferrous, Hongyuan Chemical, Lifosa, Henan Weilai, Jinyang Hi-tech, Tanfac, PhosAgro, Rio Tinto Alcan, and Gulf Fluor.

Drivers

Mounting demand for this compound in the construction, automotive, pharmaceutical, and other sectors owing to its chemical properties is expected to aid growth of the aluminum fluoride market over the forecast period.

Furthermore, increasing application of aluminum fluoride as an intermediate compound in the chemical industry combined with the ongoing R&D activities over its effectiveness in other applications is expected to boost growth of the aluminum fluoride market throughout the forecast period.

The Epitome of the COVID-19 Debacle

The outbreak of the COVID-19 virus had a detrimental effect on the expansion of the global aluminum fluoride market. The crisis-fueled disruptions in the supply chain have led to temporary pauses in the operations of several sectors. These disruptions have also influenced the financial model and engulfed market participants into relying on revenue sources beyond their core production capabilities.

Key Takeaways

The aluminum fluoride market is anticipated to grow at a CAGR of 1.9 % during the forecast period owing to the expanding building and construction industry and wider acceptance across the chemical sector. For instance, in June 2021, an aluminum solutions providing company in Australia, Alcore, announced to develop a new production facility in Tasmania with a capacity of 10,000 ton/year to produce aluminum fluoride from aluminum waste.

Across the geographical horizons, the Asia Pacific region is leading the global aluminum fluoride market on the heels of growing demand from the construction and automotive sectors coupled with the presence of major producers such as China and India.

Regarding the same, the North American region is teeming with attractions for the global aluminum fluoride market on account of growing application in the pharmaceutical and automotive sectors.
