The WEN Boston team concluded an exciting 2021, having grown membership back to pre-pandemic levels, hosting 13 events with over 560 attendees. Most events were provided virtually; however, WEN Boston held our inaugural “Summer Networking Series” with outdoor events including a golf clinic, self-defense clinic, and our signature ‘Headshots and Happy Hour’. In support of WEN Boston’s commitment to education, the team expanded engagement with the college community in Boston to develop young talent entering the energy industry. The board also formed an executive advisory committee with local executives.

The board is enthusiastic about launching new programming targeted at female executives for 2022 to foster greater collaboration and communication between senior leaders in the Boston area, including events geared towards professional development, community, and expertise.

ABOUT THE WOMEN’S ENERGY NETWORK BOSTON

The Women’s Energy Network Boston Chapter (WEN Boston) is part of an international association of professionals who work across the energy value chain. WEN Boston was established in October 2017 with a mission to build a close-knit community of women in energy that is focused on education, career development, and advocacy. Its goal is to develop a valuable network of women in the industry, providing programming that shapes and enhances their careers.
