The business employee testing program is designed to ensure that an individual employee infected with COVID does not infect an entire company shutting them down for weeks.

Covid testing centers are experiencing high demand for testing due to the Omicron variant surge. This unusually high patient demand has stressed many testing centers, as has been widely reported. To ensure the highest customer service and diagnostic quality, the company is announcing today it will be instituting a no-wait appointment system Friday, January 25th, 2022. This will allow patients flexibility and minimal interruption to their daily lives. It will enable a business to provide employee monitoring to limit COVID damages to their day-to-day operations.

Daniel Rasmussen stated, "Pinnacle Integrative Health, COVID testing program was founded to meet a critical market need for COVID tests that provide patients with rapid tests that safely minimize delays, and let people get on with their daily activities."
