Increase in incidence of liver diseases, surge in government and non-government awareness program, and surge in geriatric population coupled with rise in alcohol consumption and poor dietary habits have boosted the growth of the global liver disease treatment market. However, strict regulatory approvals related to liver diseases treatment drugs and vaccines and resistance to antiviral drugs used in treatment of hepatitis B and C hamper the market growth. On the contrary, presence of strong pipeline products is expected to open new opportunities for the market players in the future.

The growth of the global liver disease treatment market is attributed to increase in prevalence of liver diseases, rise in drug discovery and research, development activities for safe and effective therapies. Moreover, increase in alcohol consumption, obesity and rise in healthcare expenditure is expected to drive the market growth during the forecast years
