Fatpos Global has released a report titled "Flexible Packaging Market - Analysis of Market Size, Share & Trends for 2014 – 2020 and Forecasts to 2031" which is anticipated to reach USD 714.7

billion by 2031. According to a study by Fatpos Global, the market is anticipated to portray a CAGR of 13.87% between 2021 and 2031. According to the report, the flexible plastic packaging market is predictable to witness significant growth in the future owing to its increased demand in end-use industries, such as food, beverage, cosmetic & personal care, and pharmaceutical. Development in modern retailing, high consumer income, and acceleration in e-commerce activities, particularly in the emerging nations, are expected to support the growth of the flexible plastic packaging market during the forecast years.

"Due to busy routines, the demand for convenient products has augmented, thus leading to a rise in demand for flexible packs. Flexible plastic packaging requires fewer resources and energy for packaging; henceforth, flexible packs are accessible at low costs. Flexible plastic packaging decreases product waste and increases product shelf-life. This type of packaging can be done in the least packing possible, thereby dropping product warehousing and shipping expenses, while keeping or enhancing product protection", said a lead analyst at Fatpos Global.
