“Busy Bay Area parents continue to return to work and thus continue to look for best-in-class preschool opportunities for their children,” explained Harpreet Grewal, director of Learn and Play Montessori. “Our newest facility in South Fremont continues to have enrollment opportunities for preschool as well as kindergarten, as opposed to some of our other locations in Fremont which are booked up. In all cases, parents should call in for a consultation on their child’s preschool needs and location, as we can usually find a way to make it work for both parent and child.”Fremont California student hard at work in preschool.

PRESCHOOL OPTIONS IN FREMONT CALIFORNIA

Fremont California is bursting with people and employment. Nowadays, many "Silicon Valley" parents are returning to full-time, in-office work. They have spent the last few years juggling parenting and employment "at home," but as normalcy slowly but surely returns, they are now looking for best-in-class preschool options in Fremont. While Learn & Play Montessori continues to offer "online preschool and kindergarten" (<https://www.learnandplaymontessori.com/online-learning/>), parents are increasingly opting for in-person learning for their children. Some of the older locations are booked or nearly booked, so parents who live or work in South Fremont are happy to find the new, best-in-class program at the South Fremont campus. Interested parents can visit the newly updated page, as well as call in for a consultation. In some cases, campus tours are available (limited, of course, by Pandemic restrictions), but in all cases the staff is happy to explain the teaching philosophy. With locations not just in Fremont but also in Danville and Dublin, the school staff is sure that they can find a preschool program that will work for both parents and child.
