Government across major countries have announced a lockdown due to the COVID-19 pandemic resulting in the halt of business. The lockdown and travel restrictions have severely affected the aviation industry since air travel globally was halted. Moreover, due to lockdown, aircraft manufacturing was disrupted which affected the demand for aircraft amenities & auxiliaries. Furthermore, the delivery of the already manufactured aircraft amenities & auxiliaries was delayed due to lockdown. Furthermore, due to social distancing norms, there was the unavailability of labor required for the manufacturing of aircraft amenities & auxiliaries which further delayed the operation. Moreover, there was the shortage of raw material which hampered the production of aircraft amenities & auxiliaries. Aviation industry is developing sector that was severely affected by the pandemic, but it is expected to recover and drive the aircraft attitude indicators market post-pandemic.

The in-flight travel experience has become one of the deciding factors in passenger airlines selection. As a result, airline companies are focusing on improving cabin interiors, comfortable seat structures, entertainment solutions, and providing high-speed internet to improve overall travel experience of passenger. For instance, in 2021 NextGen, an FAA-led air transport system modernization program aimed at planning and implementing innovative and sophisticated technologies to improve the overall capacity, performance, efficiency of the aircraft. Moreover, Garuda Indonesia, the flag carrier of Indonesia, provides a wide range of onboard entertainment services, including live streaming of TV shows, in-flight shopping, and games to its premium travel class passengers. Furthermore, JetBlue is the global leading airline to provide the best in-flight experience. It provides plenty of legroom, snoozes kits with eye masks & earplugs, the ability to watch live TV with 36 channels, power & USB outlets, Wi-Fi, and others. Thus, the service providers in the market are focusing on developing technologically advanced solutions that will assist in keeping the passengers delighted and feel safe during long-haul flights. The race to improve passenger in-flight experience thus is expected to drive the growth of the aircraft amenities & auxiliaries' market.
