Sidoo have always had a soft spot for the area. Now that they are grown adults, Dylan and his brother Jordan are donating quite a bit of time on their own. They still work under Sidoo Family Giving as well.

Oasis Kitchen is always looking for new people to help out those in need. As the kitchen continues to grow, the need for more help will only go up. The most popular times for Oasis Kitchen occur during the holiday season but help makes a difference throughout the year for different events and day-to-day activities. Those interested in helping out can contact them directly for more information.

Dylan Sidoo is the oldest son of Manjy and David Sidoo. The young entrepreneur is a business-minded individual with his hands in several projects at this time. As for business news, he released a messaging app called Vanish. With his brother Jordan Sidoo as a shareholder, he's recently been working on releasing a fully commercialized version of his product.

Giving back to the community is also a passion for Dylan and his family. At an early age, he learned the importance of giving back. It's something he strives to get involved with more and more as he comes into his own as a young professional.
