Institute (AKFI), a leading non-profit global consortium, is proud to announce the launch of its brand new website that is developed by Creative House, an 11-year-old award-winning digital company specialized in digital marketing and website development.

The new contemporarily designed site has a fresh look, increased functionality, and simple access to key information. It brings together industry leaders and trend-setters by providing Digital Transformation and ESG knowledge to help stakeholders establish concrete plans to protect them from unexpected events.

“As an innovative and creative company, we are always inspired to work with leading organizations that serve the future. It was our pleasure to support AKFI's endeavor in bridging the gap between Digital Transformation and ESG with forward-thinking industry expertise. We are honored to contribute as part of this movement.” Said Mike Pavlov, CEO at Creative House.

"We are thrilled to debut our new website to our members who are looking to understand how to leverage Digital Transformation and ESG to grow sustainable businesses," said Manuel Vexler, Executive Director at AKFI. "This website truly represents our vision to bridge a significant gap in ESG sustainability and digital transformation risks from unseen events."

Actionable Knowledge Foundational Institute (AKFI) offers the platform for member companies to transform knowledge into actionable, forward-looking plans which will guide companies to adequately respond to unexpected events and to integrate sustainability and digital transformation for value creation.
