

Colic Calm®, Clinically Proven to Reduce Babies' Daily Crying Time

Colic Calm was found to reduce infant daily crying time by more than 50% on average.

SARASOTA, FL, UNITED STATES, January 27, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Colic Calm, the #1 selling gripe water alternative medicine that targets colic, gas, and reflux symptoms, announced today that it is now clinically proven to significantly reduce infant crying time based on an open-label single-group clinical study.

In the study, it was concluded that Colic Calm is an effective way to reduce babies' crying time in association with symptoms of colic and can be recommended to support healthy sleep patterns, reduce the risk of colic relapse, and does not carry any negative side effects.

Colic Calm is already loved by moms and doctors across the globe. But with the positive clinical study results, CalmCo®—the creators of Colic Calm—are confident that this product will help more families combat challenges that accompany colicky, gassy, and reflux babies.

We are thrilled to see data that proves the efficacy of Colic Calm's ability to significantly reduce babies' crying time. It's our mission to help provide effective relief.”
