

The UK's future role in military SDA provision presented at the Military Space Situational Awareness Conference 2022

SMi Group reports: The UK Space Command & UK Space Agency will be speaking at the Military Space Situational Awareness Conference, in London this April.

LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, January 28, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Space debris is a global problem and the joint initiative announced earlier this year from the UK Space Agency's National Space Technology Programme (NSTP) and Space, Surveillance and Tracking Programme (SST) will enable UK companies to mature technologies and early phase concepts to help tackle the issue including old satellites, spent rocket bodies and even tools dropped by astronauts.

With this in mind, the 17th Annual Military Space Situational Awareness Conference will discuss the UK's future role in military SDA provision with keynote briefings from the UK Space Command and the UK Space Agency.

For those interested in attending, there is a £200 early bird discount expiring on 31st January 2022. Register at <http://www.military-space.com/pr1EIN>

Featured Presentations:

Mr Jacob Geer, Head of Space Surveillance and Tracking, UK Space Agency will be presenting on 'Latest Developments in UK Space Surveillance and Tracking', covering the topics below:
