Rensa Games Completes Fundraise and Announces SOMA.finance Partnership

CHEYENNE, WYOMING, UNITED STATES, February 3, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Kyodai Technologies, Inc. announced that it has closed its pre-seed funding round for Rensa Games™. Rensa Games is a platform for video game development and distribution built on the Ethereum blockchain, featuring automated content licensing and real-time payments for digital asset creators and independent game developers.

Rensa Games' public alpha platform will launch at the annual ETHDenver event on February 18, featuring original games for purchase on the Ethereum and Polygon blockchains. Game access will be represented by tokenized licenses that can be resold between users. These Non-Fungible Games™ perform real-time revenue and royalty distributions to the game's developers, content creators, and contributors.

"The early focus in the blockchain gaming space has been 'Play to Earn.' Our ethos is 'Build to Earn,'" said Anthony Apollo, Founder and CEO. "We're launching a platform to reputationally and financially recognize the value generated by game developers and content creators. The opportunities for decentralized intellectual property management have never been bigger."

Rensa Games also announced a partnership with SOMA.finance, the first compliant multi-asset DEX and issuance platform for tokenized equities, crypto assets, STOs, and NFTs. Rensa Games' founding team has deep experience with security tokens, and anticipates hosting equity crowdfunding offerings on its platform this year through Regulation Crowdfunding. Through this partnership, players and community members could invest in their favorite independent studios, vote on key development decisions, and share in a game's future success.

"We were impressed with the founders' thoroughness when we worked together previously in the tokenized security arena, and look forward to the implementation of similar equity offerings for video games," said William Heyn, Founder and CEO of Tritaurian Capital and Co-Founder of

SOMA.finance. “We also believe large publishers may use this as a way to open abandoned franchises for fan collaboration through fractional ownership.”
