

The Stolpersteine Central Amsterdam Monument Project To Honor Victims of the Holocaust: Seeking Survivors, Descendents

AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS, February 16, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Stolpersteine Central Amsterdam Monument Project, is seeking survivors and descendants to help honoring and remember victims of the Holocaust.

During World War II, the Nazis killed nearly 80 percent of the Netherlands' Jews - a staggering proportion that represents the largest percentage of Jewish victims in any of the Western European countries.

Working together with key partners, "Stolpersteine" honoring Holocaust victims will be placed in front of the homes along the central canals in Amsterdam, where the victims had their last freely chosen address. This project will coincide with the opening of the Dutch National Holocaust Museum in Amsterdam in 2023.

...even in times of joy and celebration we are urged to momentarily acknowledge tragedy. These stones provide that small tear of sorrow next to the grand history and architecture of the canals.”

Michael Potter

Stichting Stolpersteine

The first canal to receive a large number of Stolpersteine will be Herengracht, where on March 21st and 22nd 2022, 61 stones will be laid officially to memorialize those victims taken from their homes.

Michael Potter, the project's initiator, explained, "the central canal area of Amsterdam is recognized as one of the most beautiful neighborhoods in the world. Part of the Jewish tradition is that even in times of joy and celebration we are urged to momentarily acknowledge tragedy in both the past and the present. These stones provide that small tear of sorrow next to the grand and historic architecture of the canals.”

The project is currently seeking sponsors and supporters of the other Central Amsterdam canals:

Singel; at least 35 Stolpersteine
 Herengracht; at least 62 Stolpersteine
 Keizersgracht; at least 163
 Stolpersteine
 Prinsengracht; at least 142
 Stolpersteine
 Nieuwe Herengracht; at least 400
 Stolpersteine
 Nieuwe Keizersgracht; at least 392
 Stolpersteine
 Nieuwe Prinsengracht; at least 817
 Stolpersteine

Total Stolpersteine to Honor Victims of the Holocaust: 2,011*
 (*This number could be substantially higher because the Stolpersteine project can honor all victims of the Nazis, not only those victims that were murdered.)

An integrated STOLPERSTEINE app could enable a person walking down the street to learn the Jewish history as well as the history of other victims of the Nazis behind a house, a building, or a monument. The app is currently in development and seeking funding to provide augmented reality, photos, short video stories and other relevant content.

PARTNERS

Stichting Stolpersteine, Stolpersteine are made since 1992 by the artist Gunter Demnig, are brass covered stones with which we commemorate the victims of Nazis during the Second World War. The Stolpersteine are placed in the sidewalk in front of the last freely chosen homes of the victims.

One of the architects of the Central Amsterdam Monument initiative, Michael Potter is also the Executive Director of the documentary film, "Chichinette: The Accidental Spy" about Marthe Cohn, the Holocaust survivor who spied behind Nazi lines. Potter has multidecadal ties to the Herengracht canal in Amsterdam.

Ulrika Grünwald Citron, of Dutch ancestry, was born and raised in Sweden. In addition to serving on the National Holocaust Museum of Amsterdam's Board of Governors, she serves on the USC Shoah Foundation's Next Generation Council, and is active in the nonprofit world, in Sweden and the US. For the past several years, she has pursued the sacred act of memorializing Dutch victims of the Holocaust, including placing stones in memory of her grandparents in front of their Amsterdam home.
