The life science opportunity in the cannabis economy is truly limitless and the success of our first fund supports our investment thesis.”

Ross O'Brien

BVE's first fund closed in spring of 2021 with nine portfolio companies, including LeafWorks, a plant genomics company for the cannabis and hemp markets; Engineered Medical Technologies (dba tCheck), a D2C medical device developer; NaluBio Inc, an innovative chemistry based synthetic CBD producer; Holistik Wellness and MyHi, CBD and THC infused beverage companies; two companies co-founded by former professional football player, Ricky Williams; and Revolutionary Clinics, a Massachusetts-based dispensary chain that recently ranked number four on the

“The life science opportunity in the cannabis economy is truly limitless and the success of our first fund supports our investment thesis. We have a deep understanding of what it takes to build early stage companies and leverage our platform to not only provide capital, but to open access to a network of scientific, medical, regulatory, finance and operational professionals,” said Ross O'Brien, BVE Founder and Managing Partner. “As investors, we are in service of the entrepreneurs first, and our firm's mission is to create $1 billion in value and positively impact 1 billion lives. With our first fund, and now the launch of our second fund, we are delivering on that mission and we look forward to working with the founders who, like BVE, also believe in unreasonable success and the transformative power of entrepreneurship.”

Bonaventure Equity is actively seeking companies innovating in the life sciences verticals of the cannabis economy. To learn more about the types of founders and companies that BVE seeks to partner with please visit www.bve.vc.
