Over the counter (OTC) drugs are basically non-prescription medicines, which are sold without the doctors prescription. Hence, retrieving OTC drugs has become an easy task due to the wide availability of OTC drugs in pharmacies and online health websites. In addition, OTC drugs are regulated by active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs) and not by the final product. Moreover, dietary supplements are intended to deliver desired nutrients to the body to increase the quantity of an individuals diet consumption. Furthermore, these supplements provide additional non-nutrient chemicals, which are claimed to have biologically beneficial effects in the body.
