The Indian facial injectors market is segmented on the basis of products and end users. According to products, the market is bifurcated into dermal fillers/injectable implants and anti-aging/anti-wrinkle injections. Based on the end-users, the market is segmented into hospitals, dermatology clinics, beauty clinics, and dermatology research institutes. By geography market is analyzed across various regions namely Delhi, Mumbai, Kolkata, Chennai, and Rest of India.

Increase in beauty consciousness, rise in awareness about the facial injections, growth in demand of non-surgical & minimally-invasive cosmetic surgeries, and advent of products such as Galderma Emervel, and Restylane Silk drive the market growth. However, high cost of surgeries and some side-effects such as swelling & bruising at the injection site hinder the market growth. In addition, rise in demand for new combination treatments, growth in medical tourism, and rise in disposable income are expected to provide different opportunities for the market.
