"Radically Authentic is a space for all creatives, writers, musicians, artists, poets, leaders, speakers, teachers, and dreamers. If you have a message, mission, or purpose to share with the world, these are your people," says Vandepas, who hosts a weekly live session to connect with creatives and answer their questions related to publishing, entrepreneurship and finding their creative voice. The group invites members to attend sessions held both in association with GracePoint Publishing as well as other small businesses that want to share insights and information from their industry at no expense to group members.

Through it's inaugural year, the group has already aided in helping creatives find employment ventures in their fields, host and hold guest appearances on podcasts, find beta readers for their books, get feedback on artwork, and make connections to new exciting friends. It continues to serve as a source of inspiration and connection for its users and gives them direct connections to professionals who are eager to teach and interact with aspiring artists, writers, poets, musicians, and entrepreneurs.

The "Radically Authentic" Facebook group is operated through GracePoint Publishing, the premier publishing house for creatives and artists looking to amplify their message and break through traditional publishing molds.
