Global Secure Web Gateway Market Trends:

The global secure web gateway market is primarily driven by the growing internet penetration and the increasing number of cyber-attacks that have necessitated an end-to-end holistic security solution. The rising demand for protection and security for end-user data from web-based threats across organizations has also resulted in the escalating demand for SWG solutions. With the growing work from home culture, various enterprises are also employing these gateways to prevent data leaks and filters and detect malicious codes. Moreover, extensive research and development (R&D) activities have enabled several organizations to develop 7-layered traffic inspection that allows users to frame a set of rules to control which programs can or cannot access LAN (Local Area Network) and the internet, unlike traditional firewall.
