Catherine Whittaker has been hired as Director of Operations and will be tasked with streamlining processes, supporting sales and the growing technical team, while maximizing the company's operational processes.

In addition, Calvin Redman is now a full-time employee and was named as Service Delivery Manager. He will report to Whittaker while overseeing the technical team. Andrew Paramo and Vlad Gajcic are the team's veteran techs.

Zachery Martin and Ronny Garcia will round out the tech representatives at the company.

“I'm thrilled to welcome Catherine and the other new hires to our team,” said Krikor Nishanian, President of CVC Solution. “With their expertise and leadership, I know that we will be more established to grow at this exciting time. Our expanded team will help us bolster our services ensuring tailored IT solutions for small and medium businesses across California's Central Valley markets.”

Whittaker brings experience across several fields spanning from consumer electronics to e-Commerce where she worked with several SaaS products, including ERP software. At CVC Solution, she will be focused on spearheading the company's operational systems efficiencies and strategies ensuring quality customized support to clients.

"I'm looking forward to revolutionizing the way CVC Solution operates and positively affecting the current processes and policies, leading the team as a heart-centric leader, and engaging with current and new clients," Whittaker said.

CVC Solution's expertise is to take on the time-consuming hassles involved in IT support, so clients can focus on what they do best. With its strong team of talent, CVC Solution is more prepared than ever to save clients money while providing a seamless and positive technology experience.
