Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to grow at a CAGR of around 9% during 2021-2026.

Glass curtain walls are made using lightweight aluminum-framed facades that aid in resisting the impact of unfavorable environmental conditions. They are widely available in standard prefabricated systems and customized wall units, which are designed as per the requirement of customers. Presently, they are gaining widespread adoption as they provide a viable glazing solution to buildings by offering a sleek and modern look and enabling natural light to penetrate deeper within the infrastructure.

Market Trends

Glass curtain walls are extensively employed in the construction industry to protect buildings from wind, earthquakes, and natural calamities. This, in confluence with increasing investments in construction, renovation, remodeling, interior decoration, and recreational activities, represents one of the key factors strengthening the market growth. Furthermore, as glass curtain walls assist in meeting energy conservation necessities, the rising demand for energy-efficient construction facilities and widespread adoption of green building materials are driving the market. In addition, rapid urbanization, inflating disposable incomes, and the increasing focus on developing smart cities are other factors accelerating the market growth.
