“We are extremely excited to be joining the Cool Roof Rating Council. We have always been committed to bringing our clients the most energy-efficient roofing materials possible, and this partnership will allow us to provide them with an even greater selection of cool roofing options,” said Derric Stull, president of Ridge Valley Exteriors.

Ridge Valley Exteriors has had a long history of providing quality roofing services in the region, and we're looking forward to bringing the most energy-efficient roofing materials possible to our clients, through this new CRRC certification.

The CRRC independently tests and certifies highly reflective and solar-reflective roof products. Their ratings are based on total product performance — including reflectance and emittance — as well as durability, longevity, and product warranties. In addition to helping consumers make informed decisions when purchasing a new roof system, their ratings also help architects, specifiers, code officials and energy analysts evaluate products in terms of their energy efficiency. By joining the council, Ridge Valley Exteriors can give their clients insight into how their roof will affect their home's energy use before they even purchase it.

If you're looking for more information about the CRRC or cool roofs in general, feel free to reach out to us at any time! We're happy to answer your questions and walk you through our process.
