IMARC Group expects the global specialty medical chairs market to grow at a CAGR of around 7% during 2021-2026.

SHERIDAN, WYOMING, UNITED STATES, February 11, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the latest report by IMARC Group "Specialty Medical Chairs Market: Global Industry Trends, Share, Size, Growth, Opportunity and Forecast 2021-2026". The global specialty medical chairs market exhibited strong growth during 2015-2020. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to grow at a CAGR of around 7% during 2021-2026.

Specialty medical chairs are used for improving flexibility and comfort for the patients and healthcare professionals during surgical procedures. These chairs are utilized for examination, treatment, and rehabilitation purposes and are generally operated manually or backed by batteries. Some of the commonly available specialty medical chairs are pediatric, bariatric and geriatric chairs. These chairs are used for dialysis, mammography, birthing, diagnosis and treatment of disorders. They are equipped with a height-adjusting seating system, swing-away arms and easy-to-clean surfaces and are also highly cost-effective, durable, and require minimal maintenance.

Market Trends:

The growing prevalence of chronic medical ailments across the globe is primarily driving the growth of the market. Furthermore, the increasing geriatric population, who are more prone to cardiovascular and respiratory diseases and require intensive medical care, is also contributing to the market growth. Moreover, due to the continuous spread of COVID-19, there has been a significant rise in the demand for specialty medical chairs in the healthcare centers. Additionally, several product innovations, such as the introduction of personalized and automated chairs, are further catalyzing the market growth. Various other factors, including significant improvements in the healthcare infrastructures and growing expenditure capacities of the consumers, are projected to further drive the global market for specialty chairs in the coming years.
