

Renewable Products Marketing Group Advances Tax Reporting for Ethanol Products with Software from MF License Center

Renewable Products Marketing Group grows tax compliance operations with technology from Motor Fuel License Center

SCOTTSDALE, AZ, USA, February 15, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Motor Fuel License Center (MFLC), a leading source of data for oil and gas companies to automate fuel tax compliance, today announced its welcoming of the opportunity to work with Renewable Products Marketing Group (RPMG).

As a producer of high-quality distiller grains and renewables, RPMG is leveraging synergies in motor fuels with MFLC to advance tax filing and reporting for ethanol products. RPMG utilizes MFLC's cloud-based fuel tax software to more efficiently and accurately source tax licenses for data to improve excise tax filing.

Tax operations for ethanol producers have different requirements but similarly benefit from automation, and we're fortunate to proactively partner with leaders like RPMG.”

“Tax operations for ethanol producers have different requirements but similarly benefit from automation,” said Matthew Schmeisser, founder and developer of the platform at MF License Center. “The opportunity to reach new markets in a related industry is exciting, and we're fortunate to proactively partner with leaders like RPMG.”

RPMG is the latest company to use the fuel tax compliance platform from MFLC for access to centralized license listings from federal, state, and local jurisdictions. The collaboration stands to extend the capabilities of compliance teams at companies that specialize in transacting ethanol-based products and share similar reporting obligations.
